

SUCCESSFUL MEET
COMES TO CLOSE*TEACHERS' PROGRAM AS GOOD AS STATE MEETING*RICHESON IS PRESIDENT*Officers Are Elected At Final Session
This Morning—Visitors All Well Pleased

The motion for adjournment at the business session of the fourth annual meeting of the Northwest Missouri Teachers' Meeting this morning brought to an official close the largest and most successful gathering of teachers ever held in Maryville.

It was successful from the view point of attendance, for practically 1500 teachers of the district were in attendance.

The quality of the program could hardly have been improved upon, as educators of national reputation, from many parts of the country were brought together for the meeting. The lectures of Bishop Homer C. Stuntz, Dr. A. H. R. Fairchild of the University of Missouri, Edward C. Steiner of Grinnell College, Dr. Hubert L. Willett of the University of Chicago and Dr. Fannie C. Dunn of Columbia University of New York City would have been outstanding features of any convention. Each of these are recognized as national authorities in their particular branch of work.

The real success of the meeting should be gauged by the actual benefit received from it by the attending teachers. And all available information shows that the convention was truly successful from this point of view.

Many compliments were heard from the officers of the Association and the visiting teachers on the hospitality that the people of Maryville extended them and especially were they well pleased with the successful manner in which the rooming problem was handled. Mrs. A. R. Perrin reported that every delegate was placed and there were rooms for 200 to spare. Credit is due President Myrtle McPherson and Secretary C. A. Hawkins of the Association for the very successful manner in which the meetings were conducted.

At the business session held this morning the following officers for the coming year were elected: President, S. C. Richeson, Northborne; first vice-president, Fred Keller, Ashland; second vice-president, Mrs. Allie Wilson, Princeton; third vice-president, Ed Adams, Barnard; secretary, C. A. Hawkins, Maryville; treasurer, E. O. Harvey, Tina; executive committee, George W. Somerville, Hopkins.

At this meeting Mrs. Walter McNabb Miller of St. Louis gave a short talk on the health of the school child. October 12, 13, 14 was decided upon as the date of the meeting next year.

At the final meetings of the departmental sessions, the following officers were elected: Rural Department, Prof. Bert Cooper, permanent chairman; Mrs. Anna L. Sims of Clinton County, vice-chairman; and Mrs. D. L. May of Nodaway County, secretary. In the High School Department, Supt. Patrick of Bethany was elected chairman, and Supt. Zeliff of Stanberry, secretary. In the Elementary Department, Miss Fannie Hope was chosen chairman; Miss Blanche Steekman, vice-chairman; and Miss Clara Whaley, secretary.

1500 Teachers Go On Record
For Limitation of Armaments

By unanimous vote, 1,500 teachers of Northwest Missouri in the final session of their annual meeting this morning declared in favor of a definite limitation of armaments, brought about in open discussion.

The resolution was framed on motion of Mrs. Walter McNabb Miller of St. Louis, who arrived this morning to attend the final session. It was sent by telegraph to President Warren G. Harding and to the four commissioners who will represent the United States in the international armaments conference convening in Washington on Armistice Day.

Other resolutions were passed thanking the Chamber of Commerce and the citizens of Maryville for their interest and hospitality; thanking the officials of the association; commending the Board of Regents and President Uel W. Lamkin and pledging support of the State Teachers' College; expressing approval of the county unit bill; urging renewed energy in the framing of the new constitution; and recommending changes in the annual program.

The resolution on limitation of armaments was as follows:

"We, the 1500 teachers of Northwest Missouri; assembled at Maryville, wish to go on record as in favor of a definite limitation of armaments, brought about in open discussion, and do hereby ask our committee to express our sentiments by wire to the President of the United States and to our commissioners, Secretary Hughes, Senators Root, Underwood, and Lodge, and to express our hearty approval of all efforts in that direction."

JAILBREAKER HELD IN NORTH DAKOTA*MISSING MORE THAN A YEAR, IR-
VIN SWEARINGEN IS CAUGHT*GAVE OFFICER A CHASE*Escaped Here Twice and Evaded Pursuers at Many Other Places—
Wanted for Garage Robbery

Irvin Swearingen, who escaped from the Nodaway County jail on September 26, 1920, is in the custody of the sheriff at Minot, N. Dak., and is being held for the authorities here. Sheriff Roach received a telegram late yesterday from Sheriff A. P. Scofield at Minot to that effect.

Sheriff Roach wired back at once to hold Swearingen. Requisition papers will be secured and will be taken to North Dakota to be honored by the governor of that state. Deputy Sheriff Leo Atherton has been appointed as messenger to bring Swearingen back here. He will go after him just as soon as the papers are received from Jefferson City.

Swearingen is wanted here on a charge of burglary of the Manchester & Dadds garage at Skidmore when an automobile and some tires were taken. Leonard Henderson, who was also arrested on the same charge, was sentenced to the penitentiary for two years at the September term of court last year.

Swearingen made his escape from the county jail here twice. The first time was when he and Bruce Getchell attacked Sheriff Dowden when he was locking them in their cells during the night. Swearingen was caught at the Will Jackson farm near Graham a few days later. Then after a few days in jail Swearingen and Getchell escaped a second time, on Sunday morning, September 20, 1920, while Sheriff Dowden and Mrs. Dowden were away from the jail. Swearingen and Getchell picked the locks in the death cell of the jail.

Getchell was caught and was given a term of seven years.

Traces of Swearingen were picked up from time to time by the authorities, but he always managed to give them the slip. He was once traced to Allendale, Mo., and was being held there for Sheriff Dowden. He escaped only a few minutes before the Nodaway county sheriff's arrival. He was then caught at Redding, Ia., and again escaped. His father, it is said, lives near Minot.

Swearingen has served a term in the penitentiary for stealing a car in Geny county. It is also said that he made his escape from the officers while serving his term in the institution at Jefferson City.

EUROPE CRUSHED
BY STEAM ROLLER*LOVE MUST REPLACE HATE, SAYS
EDUCATOR.*HOPE NOT DESTROYED*America Must Lead in Establishing Harmony—Too Much Politics
Being Played.

Dr. Edward Steiner of Grinnell College of Grinnell, Iowa, was the principal speaker at both afternoon and night sessions of the teachers meeting yesterday.

"War's steam roller crushed Europe flat; it all looks alike," said Dr. Steiner in his evening lecture on "The Mind of Europe." "Capitalism and Bolshevism are thriving side by side, there not being any real difference between them except in name and claims. The people are ready to grasp any small straw that comes in their line of vision in an effort to help themselves.

"The great hindrance to world peace and advancement lies in the fact that people as a rule are not willing to pay the price with struggle and good deeds, but are trying to gain their own selfish ends. There is too much politics being played in European affairs. If men had possessed vision, a successful war would have been ended by a successful peace. Love must replace hate in the dealings of one nation with another.

"The decrease in the value of money and the scarcity of foodstuffs have made the 'Mind of Europe' unsteady and revolutionary," the speaker said. "There are one million underfed children in Germany alone and the situation is getting no better. The cry of 'where shall we eat?' is being supplanted by the cry of 'where shall we live?' and 'what shall we wear?' The economic future of the whole world is as yet uncertain because no satisfactory government has been set up in Central Europe. When America is pointed to as an example they ask concerning the graft and 'wire pulling' in our own parliamentary system.

"But," Dr. Steiner pointed out, "all hope must not be destroyed. No one who has seen the destruction and suffering can doubt but that their is a God who cannot be trifled with and that nothing short of the most unselfish effort will lift the world out of the turmoil which it is now in."

Dr. Steiner's address was preceded by a concert given by the Maryville Band, which included among its numbers a cornet solo, "Columbia Polka," by William Gaugh. The program was closed with two well received violin numbers by C. D. Kutschinski.

In his afternoon lecture, Dr. Steiner said in part: "If education is to count in our national life, it must be centered on the fact that students must not only attain facts but learn their own relationships to society, that is respect for personality. The teaching of the master teacher was reverence for personality.

"The supreme thing on earth is the human. Teach the child that all we have gotten has come through a succession of human lives. All men have their place, all are bound together.

"We must be friends one to another, because only as we are taught this way will eternal growth be ours. What doth it profit America if she gains the whole world and loses her own soul?

"We are all humans together working to one great end. Europe is dying of its petty hates. Why should we be taught to hate any sect? There is a unity in mankind. Every nation has its own chime but all notes must harmonize. America must lead in this."

Mrs. Hackney stated this morning that next Friday would be the last day for entrants in the baby contest and urged parents to have their children entered by that time.

Miss Alma Wrethling of Jefferson City, state supervisor of nurses will arrive in Maryville Thursday to assist Mrs. Hackney in preparing the scorecards for the contests.

EXPECT BIG ATTENDANCE AT REVIVAL TOMORROW

Men's Class Makes Tour This Morning
—Goal for Sunday School
Is Set at 600.

Preparations are being made in the Christian church revival here for a big day tomorrow. It is expected that it will be the biggest day thus far in the meeting with a record attendance at all services.

A special campaign for attendance in the Sunday school is being carried on, with the goal set at 600. The men's class is manifesting some of its old-time spirit in its campaign for men this week. Several boosters from the class with their ears met at the church this morning to make a tour of the surrounding country, signing up men for attendance in the morning. A large number who have not been attending regularly have already agreed to be present and the class officers are confident of reaching the goal of 200 present. Price Doyle will sing and the pastor will give an address.

Dr. Kelless, evangelist, expects to make the strongest appeals yet given in his sermons tomorrow.

A large crowd was present at the service last night to hear the sermon on "The Supreme Question." This question was taken from the sixteenth chapter of Acts, the thirtieth verse, "Sirs, what must I do to be saved?"

"This question is asked three times in the book of Acts," declared the evangelist. "One of the other two cases is that of the repentant Jews on the Day of Pentecost, as recorded in Acts, second chapter, and the other as recorded in the twenty-second chapter of Acts in the case of Saul of Tarsus."

"We find the three answers a little different, depending upon the condition of the inquirer at the time the question was asked. In the case of the Jews on the Day of Pentecost, they already had heard the message from the Apostle and, having believed, they asked this supreme question. To these believing Jews, the Apostle Peter answered, 'Repent and be baptised, every one of you, in the name of Jesus Christ, for the remission of your sins and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Spirit.'

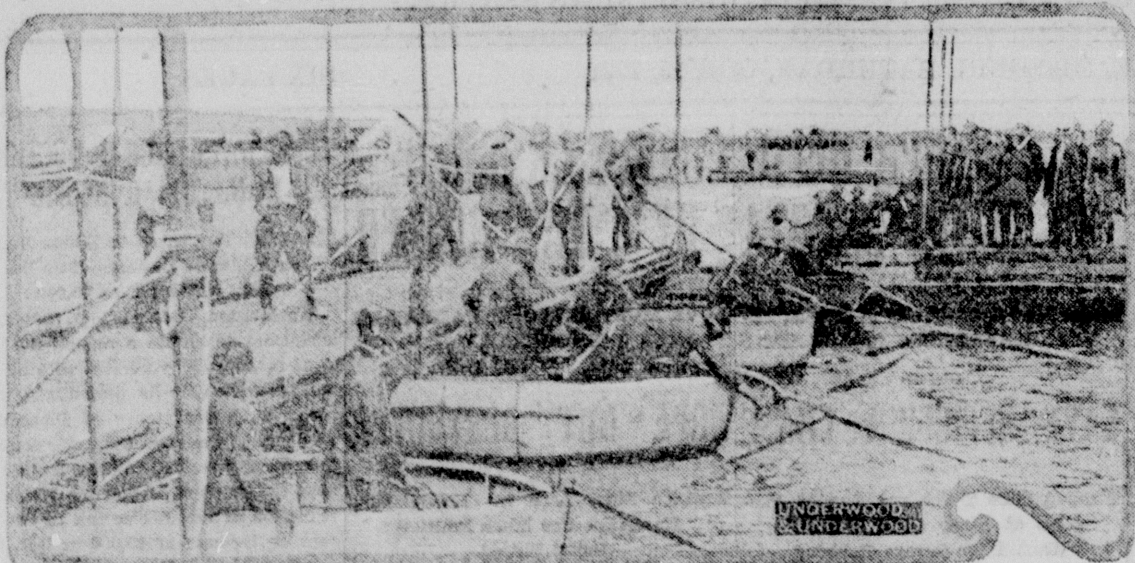

"In the case of Saul, he saw the light from Heaven, heard the voice of Jesus, believing Him to be the Son of God, and during the three days' journey on into Damascus repented of his sins. So to this repentant sinner, Ananias, in answer to the supreme question, said, 'Arise and be baptised and wash away thy sins, calling on the name of the Lord.'

"In the case of the jailor he had not yet heard the Word. So to this unbeliever the Apostle Paul said, 'Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ and my house shall be saved.'

"So we find the answer to this supreme question depending entirely upon the inquirer. In order to get the complete answer from the Scriptures to this great question it is necessary to put all these replies together and in doing so we are sure not to make a mistake and in the obeying of these requirements make sure of our forgiveness of sin."

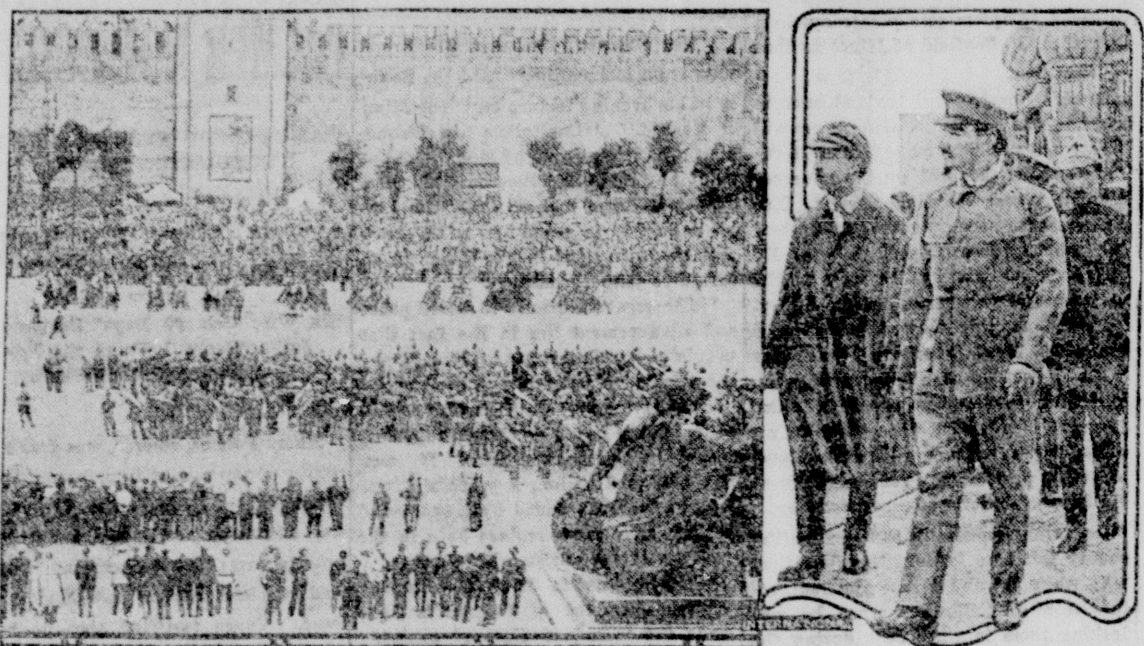

There were nine more confessions in the pickering meeting last night, making fifty-three thus far. Evangelist James Small left this morning for his

Mr. Chapman and Mr. Kay will visit the Maryville meeting tonight. A large crowd is expected at this service this evening, as the attendance last Saturday night was the largest of the week.

The Government Run Over.

Rex Hopple, who handles mail for Uncle Sam at the government building in Hopkins, met with an experience last Saturday that he does not care to again encounter. He was riding in a Ford car with a young brother and undertook to alight from the car near the Burlington depot while the car was still in motion. His feet slipped when they touched the ground, throwing him under the car, the rear wheels of the machine passing over him, and if it had been a Cole Eight instead of a Ford, there would now be no "government." — Hopkins Journal.

In Memoriam

At the meeting of the L. I. Club which was held at the home of Mrs. L. L. Gillispie Thursday afternoon the following memorial to Nora Ellen Blackney, a charter member of the club, who died October 13, 1920, written by Mrs. Rufus G. Raggold, was read:

Dear Nora, how we miss you,
None on earth shall ever know;
And those who think of you today
Are the ones that loved you so.

God took you to his home in heaven,
And we know it was his will;
But our hearts have never ceased aching

And our thoughts are lingering still
Yes, we missed you, sorely missed you,
As through life's journey we have trod,
But your life, so pure and helpful,
Still beckons us on to meet our God.

Forumettes

We have yet to hear a protest from the Maryville local of The Amalgamated Association of the Street Corner, Cigar Store and Pool Room Loafers against the short skirt.

October air is surely like old wine. A fellow gets full of zip as he comes to work these mornings.

There are many who can remember when "She Was Only a Bird in a Gilded Cage" was a popular song in this city.

West First Street housewives are learning that heavy cut glass is going the way of hand painted china—that is out. Maryville dealers tell us thin glass ware lightly etched is the thing now.

Our bachelor friend observed to us the other day that when the average married man makes a wrong step his conscience is likely to trouble him less than his wife's tongue.

Uncle Abner, the town philosopher, says if you would have a bigger seat you must be willing to pay the price.

A bride of only a few months took her husband to task for kissing her before a room full of girls. "You must not kiss me before all those girls" she said. Whereupon the bridegroom replied, "I am glad my wife is so unselfish and just to please you I will kiss those girls first."

Louise, the stenographer, says the best thing to make for Christmas, as far as she can see, is money.

Crimson salvia and the many colored cosmos, fall's own flowers, soon will fade away.

We are wondering how long it will be before muffs will make their appearance on Maryville streets.

Dan Baker, the court house cynic, says that man has produced a tasteless castor oil and he hopes he will now turn his attention to softening the atrocities of the average campaign speech.

It may be cowardly to strike a man when he is down but it certainly is safer.

We wonder why it is that fortune knocks but once at a man's door and misfortune so often.

We got our coal bins filled last week and found that even soft coal is hard to buy when the dealer presented the bill.

We overheard a neighbor's little son say to a companion that he read in the paper that cigarette smoking would change your complexion. "That is right," replied his play mate, "I always get tanned every time dad finds out I have been smoking."

We can all remember when we were glad to drink water from any pump in the country and did not know it was swarming with bacteria.

All the average man has against tainted money is that it taints his.

If the reformers would stop smoking let them buy up the five cent normalcy cigars which have appeared in Maryville and pass them out, they soon would cure the habit.

URGES MORE TRAINING FOR ELEMENTARY TEACHERS

Prof. Burt W. Loomis Speaks on Their Qualifications—Sanford on "Public Health."

A meeting of the teachers of the elementary schools of this district was held in the science room at the College yesterday afternoon. This department was in charge of Miss Fannie Hope, supervisor of the grade schools of Maryville. At the morning session, Prof. Burt Loomis of the education department of the College, spoke on the subject, "Qualifications of the Elementary Teacher." After defining teaching as a gross term, he analyzed it into training, experience, personality, age, sex and salary.

The academic and professional requirements at the present time were criticised as being too low for the needs of the profession at the present time. A higher requirement for the elementary teachers, both in professional and academic preparation, was advocated.

Attention was called to the fact that academic preparation should be in that content which is a part of a child's life and experiences rather than a part of those of adults. Mr. Loomis suggested at least a high school course for academic requirements and two years of professional training as the minimum requirement for all grade teachers.

"The problem in teaching today is largely one of the elementary school," he said. "In the state of Missouri there are 21,126 teachers engaged therein. Of this number 2,570 have no high school training, 12,008 are teaching on county certificates, 3,043 with state examinations or certificates, 10,445 with three years or less of experience."

Supt. O. G. Sanford of Trenton gave a short talk on "Promotion of Health in the Public Schools." Mr. Sanford said one of the best ways to promote a child's health was by following the advice of the United States Public Health Service of Washington, D. C. A teacher may write to that office and receive many pamphlets and health charts. Three other places of importance referred to were the Department of Interior, Washington, D. C., Child Health Organization of America, 156 Fifth Avenue, New York City and the Metropolitan Insurance Company of New York City. These firms are more than glad to send much helpful material to the teachers as the Child Labor Alphabet, Health Teaching in Elementary Schools and books on, "How to Live."

The project plan of teaching was discussed very intelligently by Ralph K. Watkins of the training school of the University of Missouri. The project plan was defined as activity carried out by students in which the child follows normal purposes and does the work and most of the planning. The plan is most successful when carried out under normal conditions. The project makes possible the doing of different things by different children; the student is one who does the work and not the teacher, and the child's knowledge is utilized. If the project plan is carried out under normal social conditions, it is one of the greatest methods of teaching.

Next Week At the Movies

At the Empire

In "Behold My Wife!" which will be shown Monday and Tuesday, George Melford has produced the finest photoplay of his career. The veteran producer of "Everywoman," "The Sea Wolf," and "The Round Up," has fairly outdone himself in this deeply appealing screen version of Sir Gilbert Parker's novel of the Canadian Northwest, "The Transgression of a Savage."

The action of the picture takes place in a rugged land of trading posts and snow and in the beautiful country district of England. Mr. Melford has brought out well the contrast in these two backgrounds. The story deals with a younger son of aristocratic English parents who, returning from an expedition to a trading post in Canada, receives word that his fiancée back home has jilted him, due largely to his family's objections. Enraged more against them than against the girl, he marries an Indian maiden who had been following about in innocent admiration and sends her to England to disgrace his kin. Then he attempted to lose what vestige of manhood he has remaining. However, dramatic events not only regenerate the man, but effect a remarkable change in his red-skin bride.

Basil King is one of the eminent authors now associated with Goldwyn and Rex Beach. The latest Goldwyn production is "The Street Called Straight," by Basil King. The numerous readers of this famous and popular author will be eager to see his equally popular novel adapted to the screen. Mr. King offers something original, something unique in his "The Street Called Straight." There is no villain in the story and the leading parts are played by two men and two women, thereby presenting something different from the eternal triangle. This picture may be seen Wednesday and Thursday.

The good luck star, Thomas Meighan, has another good luck vehicle in "The Easy Road," his latest Paramount picture which will be shown Friday and Saturday.

The story deals with a novelist who makes a wealthy marriage and, finding himself on Easy Street, his ambitions wane and he develops into a drone. His wife quits him and he sinks into the depths, but is finally regenerated after a series of interesting events. Gladys George, a beautiful and talented actress, is the leading woman and heads a capable supporting cast. The picture was directed by Tom Forman and it is in every respect one well worth seeing.

At The Electric

On Monday a new serial will be started. It is Edgar Rice Burroughs' well known story, "The Son of Tarzan." This picture is ranked among the highest class serials and critics have said that it is the most thrilling and exciting story ever told on the screen. Karla Schramm takes the role of Lady Greystoke and P. Demsey Tabler plays the part of Lord Greystoke, "The Tarzan of the Apes." The Greater goes who like serial pictures will no doubt welcome the announcement of this well known picture.

On Tuesday night an unusually strong and appealing boy picture entitled, "The Soul of Youth" will be shown. A boy of thirteen is the most prominent figure and the picture shows the part that a youth of the city streets plays in the affairs of a civic government. It is through the boy's efforts that a political campaign of graft, fraud and dishonesty is squelched and a rotten candidate rendered powerless. Lewis Sargent plays the boy role, and many other players of equal prominence and popularity are in the cast.

On Wednesday and Thursday Garret Hughes and Luther Reed's picture "Lure of Youth," will be shown. Cleo Madison interprets the role of a popular actress, intoxicated by success, and she responds with fine taste the various requirements of the characterization. She is admirably supported at every step by William Conklin. A most interesting series of circumstances are built around Florentine Fair, the actress who is at the height of her success.

On Friday night "Closed Doors" will be shown featuring Alice Calhoun, supported by Harry C. Browne. The star is first seen as a fourteen year old school girl, full of life, care-free and roguish. Next as the young debutante, more refined and quiet, still maintaining much of the buoyant spirit which characterizes her as a child. Next she is shown as a more mature woman, the wife of a wealthy broker. Here she senses the responsibilities of life, but being lonely at the neglect her husband gives her, she, in her innocent childish way, seeks amusement which leads her into several intensely dramatic situations which call forth all the emotional ability and dramatic instinct the young girl possesses.

On Saturday night "Out of the Snows" a Selznick production featuring Ralph Ince and Zena Keefe will be shown. The Moving Picture World says that it is a corking good entertainment of the exciting snow-country kind for these days of misbehaving October thermometer. It is a startling story of the Frozen North, with a hot blooded romance in the land of snow. It is said to be one of the best romances of the Northland ever screened and is full of surprises, suspense and excitement.

Mrs. Robert Smallwood, who has been an invalid for sometime, died at her home in west Hopkins last Sunday. Funeral services were conducted at the home at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon by Rev. Chief of Police Leonard Whitten, better known as "Big Len," always has his eye out for suspicious characters and it keeps him busy guarding the town now that so many I. W. W.'s are floating around. He lives near the Burlington tracks in the north part of town and the other evening he saw a red faced intruder in his garden so he drew a "44" saying as he did so, "Hands up!" But the intruder did not move so he fired several shots and then got his spade to bury the victim but decided differently after reaching the spot, deciding to bring the "dead beat" to the Journal office where it laid in state several days and was viewed by many curious people, the beet being one of the largest known to gardeners, weighing seventeen pounds and measuring three feet around.

S. C. Ramsey, the west side farmer, rides a bike and while en route to his home on the old Geo. Oxley farm, two miles west of Hopkins, not long ago, met a car driven by C. Farrens, near the turn in the road west of the old Andrews farm. He thought he was giving plenty of room for the car to pass but in some way auto and bike collided. Ramsey was thrown through the windshield but aside from his face being badly cut on the glass, was not seriously hurt. The bike was not damaged to speak of and aside from the broken windshield the car was not hurt, but both men were given a scare and when they meet again, each of them will be sure he is giving the other plenty of room to pass.

C. C. Phillips and son, Max, went to St. Joseph Thursday morning to have Max's mouth attended to. In the summer, Max, was hit in the mouth with a baseball bat, knocking out ten teeth. It is only recently that his gums were well enough to have the dentist work on them.

Melvin Lamb, a prominent farmer living near Elmo, and Miss Etta Campbell, the daughter of John Campbell, an old and respected citizen of this vicinity, slipped away to Clarinda, Iowa, on Aug. 3, and were quietly married. They had planned to keep their marriage a secret and had succeeded in so doing for over two months, each pursuing their old habits of life; the groom living at Spencer Lambs and the bride living with her father.

Only a few months ago Mrs. William V. With her husband, an engineer employed by the Chinese government, she sailed from Seattle and expects to remain in the Orient three years, while Mr. Alford replaces with steel bridges the ancient ferries on the more important canals and rivers in China.

STORAGE.

For live cars.
For dead cars.
For household goods.
For what you have.

"Beauty Is Only Skin Deep"

A gold brick always looks good. It has to. Its promising appearance is its sole virtue. Looks alone will not sell goods today. Merchandise with a name—the name of its maker—has the call. For only the maker of worthy goods can long afford to advertise. At the High Court of Public Opinion any other sort is soon condemned.

Wise merchants and manufacturers seek the good papers to tell the story of their wares. The publishers seek the reputable advertising for the readers' guidance. The well-informed buyer seeks news of good merchandise through the columns of the best papers.

This proves the value of advertising. Neither advertiser nor publisher can prosper without your patronage. Therefore, it is to their advantage to cater to you. They do it, too.

And it is distinctly to your advantage to be guided by the message they lay before you—the advertisements.

Read them regularly!

Australian Gems in France.
 Australian gems are finding a ready welcome in France and the rough opal from Queensland and elsewhere has a good sale. One French lapidary recently told the New South Wales commissioner to the Lyons exhibition that he was willing to spend 200,000 francs in equipping a factory with all the latest devices solely for the cutting of the Australian rough opal. The gems shown in France by Percy Marks, the commissioner, caused intense interest in the gem trade and the effect on the Australian miner may be far reaching.

ANXIOUS MOMENT FOR DADDY

Physician's Halting Speech Made Him Fear the Worst, at Least for a Little While.

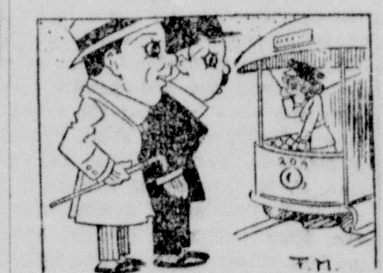

A certain physician almost invariably stutters when under the stress of excitement. Some time ago he had occasion to officiate on an important occasion, and his vocal infirmity was the cause of a funny misapprehension.

The husband and prospective father—who, by the way, had set his heart on a son and heir—was pacing the library when his doctor entered. "Well, doctor," cried the husband, forcing a smile, "is it twins?" "Triplets!" began the doctor. "Qu-qu-qu-qu," stammered the doctor. "Quadruplets! Holy smoke!" "No, no," cried the doctor. "Qu-qu-quite the contrary. Tri-try and t-t-take it ph-philosophically. It's a girl."

Remarkable Disappearance.
 Perhaps the most remarkable disappearance in modern times of a prominent public man was that of James Winstanley, a brilliant Oxford scholar, who won the "Hertford" nearly seventy years ago. Winstanley, having become a positivist under the influence of Congreve—one of the founders of the new religion consisting of "three persons and no God"—left Oxford and lived in retirement on his Leicestershire estate, where he devoted himself to the welfare of his dependents, built a church, and, in the year of his disappearance, was high sheriff. Just before the assizes he went to Folkestone, started for the pier to meet his mother coming from Boulogne, and was never afterward seen by his friends. A boatman at Coblenz stated that an Englishman resembling Winstanley was ferried over to Ehrenbreitstein, and he was supposed to have been drowned; but those who best know his temperament thought it possible that he had incurred himself in a monastery.

China's Concrete Work.
 Owing to the high cost of timber in China, it has been found economical to make railway sleepers and electric transmission line poles of reinforced concrete. The sleepers are reinforced with old mine cable, states Engineering News-Record, and are cured under water before use. New track is not supplied with concrete sleepers, but old with ordinary wooden sleepers, which are afterward replaced by concrete when the road bed is well settled. The poles are 40 feet and 50 feet high, and are cast horizontally. They are hollow for four-fifths of their length, square section, and taper, and some of the reinforcing rods are carried above and below the pole to act as lightning conductors. In both cases the concrete mix is 1:2:4, and the poles and sleepers have given complete satisfaction. —Scientific American.

Hen Drives Mother From Kittens.
 Three kittens which were deserted by their mother were adopted by a hen, says a Nova Scotia reader. The hen discovered the kittens in a cow's manger and after watching them for some time sat on them. She was chased away and her mother cat was put with its young, but the old hen went back and chased the cat and claimed the kittens. How the kittens were fed is not known.

DOING FINE
 "How's that pretty conductorett making out? Can she make 'em step lively?"
 "Rather. They begin to step lively the minute they spy her."

Died While Chloroforming Cat.
 A Pennsylvania railroad engineer lost his life when he attempted to chloroform a pet cat at his home in Paoli, Pa., while his family was away. The cat scratched and struggled as he tried to hold the chloroformed rag to its nose. He fell unconscious and died from the fumes. The cat ran away.

Special Carriage for Quadruplets.
 A furniture store in New Haven, Conn., announces that it is having a special quadruplet baby carriage made in Leominster that will shortly be presented to the quadruplets that have recently been born to Mr. and Mrs. Zalzo of New Haven.

Prolific Ewe.
 A man in Nova Scotia reports that a ewe owned by his neighbor gave birth to a lamb; two weeks later the same ewe gave birth to twins. The first lamb died shortly after birth, but the twins are still alive and progressing.

TOO ILL TO WORK

A Mother Tells How Her Daughter Was Made Well Again by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Philadelphia, Pa.—"At the age of sixteen my daughter was having trouble every month. She had bad pains across her back and in her sides, her back would pain her so that she could not do her work and would have to lie down. My married daughter recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She took it faithfully and is now regular and has no pain. We recommend the Vegetable Compound and give you permission to publish this letter." —Mrs. KATIE EICHER, 4034 N. Fairhill St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Standing all day, or sitting in cramped positions and often with wet feet, young girls contract deranged conditions, and before they are hardly aware of it they develop headaches, backache, irregularities, nervousness and bearing-down pains, all of which are symptoms of woman's ills. If every mother who has a daughter suffering from such symptoms would profit by the experience of Mrs. Eicher and give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial she may expect the same happy result.

W. A. POWER PRESIDES OVER RURAL DEPARTMENT MEETING

Miss Grace Shepherd Makes Plea for Higher Standard for Rural Teachers.

W. A. Power, superintendent of the Quitman school, was chosen as chairman of the rural school department meeting at the State Teachers College yesterday afternoon. About 300 rural school teachers were present.

Miss Grace Shepherd, of the department of rural education of the Teachers College was the speaker of the morning session. Miss Shepherd's main plea was for a higher standard for rural teachers. She gave as a reason for the existing low standard, the fact that we have been picking the best educated and superior trained teachers for our colleges, the next best for our high schools and so on until only the misfits are left for our rural schools. The fact that the county unit bill means the raising of the standard for rural schools is enough reason for the support of that bill by the rural teachers, she declared.

The afternoon session was devoted to a round table discussion. The problems discussed were the problem of the pupil unable to do the work of the grade to which he has been assigned and the problem of the pupil qualified for work beyond the grade to which he has been assigned.

The first discussion was led by Miss Shepherd. The second was led by County Supt. Anna M. Sims of Clinton, Mo. Volunteer speakers reflected the enthusiasm of the meeting.

The cases of Walter and George Huff, Elmer Hamilton, and A. W. Lucas, charged with the robbery of the Kramers east of Shambaugh, is also likely to come up for trial at this term, unless deferred by legal action. A number of other cases were docketed through the grand jury finding indictments at the last term of court, but not tried, as the former term was mostly concerned with equity business.

Among the important cases to be tried is that of Raymond Wren, now in jail on the charge of the murder of Ross Hammond. The famous cornfield story will be rehearsed, and Wren afforded an opportunity of presenting evidence to the jury on his plea that the killing was manslaughter rather than murder as charged.

DARK-EYED SUSAN

By PAULINE BARNETT.

© 1921, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

As Sue sat knitting on the veranda of the fashionable hotel, the favorite winter resort of the wealthy, the ball of pink yarn rolled off her lap and down the veranda steps. With a cry of dismay Sue rushed to capture it, for it would never do to have it soiled, for the wrap was for Nora, and Nora was so "particular."

Sue looked off at the distant tennis court where her sister and some friends were playing, and a little sigh escaped her.

"I do hope Nora finally lands that young man," she thought. "She has been angling for him all season. We really ought not to be here at all—it's so very expensive—but Nora never worries where the money comes from, so I suppose I'll have to give up the idea of some new dresses for myself. Oh, dear! I am so sick of making over cast-offs and trying to look presentable! But there, that's what must be expected when one is the homely elder sister of a beauty."

But Sue was really not a homely girl at all—nor old, either, being barely three years the senior of the spoiled and petted "baby sister" left in her care when their mother died.

"The taller of those men is very good-looking," Sue thought, as the four from the courts sauntered toward the hotel, "but I like the other man's face better. Nora said he was an artist—well, I guess he won't waste a look on me—I'm hardly a sight for artistic eyes."

"I'd better go in," she decided. "I must get out Nora's things for tonight."

She turned hastily to leave the porch when, for the second time that day, the truant ball of yarn slipped from her grasp and rolled merrily down to the green lawn. With a sharp exclamation of dismay Sue started to the rescue, but too late. The young man whom she decided was the artist leaped forward and caught it up almost before it had time to touch the ground.

Several days later Cartwright waylaid Sue just as she was leaving the dining room—the last to go.

"Come for a little walk," he begged. "I feel so restless today. Do come and help me tramp it off."

She raised startled eyes to his, for no one in the hotel had ever asked her before.

"I'll go," she said, "but we'll have to hurry off before Nora sees us," and without any more ceremony the young man grasped her hand and, like truant children, the two sped over the lawn and on and on to a little hidden path that led to the river, where, finally flushed and breathless, Sue sank down upon the soft bank of moss at the water's edge. Her color was glorious, her hair, loosened, lay in damp tendrils upon her forehead, and as she looked up at him laughing, Rex Cartwright was amazed to find that his companion was a very pretty girl.

Cartwright, wealthy, traveled, artistic, set himself out to entertain the girl, talking as only a man can talk who has known all the advantages that money can give. And the girl listened—fascinated—and then was drawn on to talk of herself, and so Cartwright learned for the first time that she was Nora's sister. But no word of complaint did she utter. "She's a brick," thought the man.

"I must go back," announced Sue, as the dinner hour approached, "to help Nora to dress."

"Will you allow me an artist's privilege?" asked Cartwright, as they neared the house. Sue nodded.

"Well, young lady, you should wear yellows or reds or rose shades in your frocks. With your clear, dark skin and dark eyes, those colors would harmonize beautifully. And wear your hair loose—just as it was this afternoon. Is it such pretty hair?" smiling. Sue flushed.

"You are not angry," he pleaded. "You see, I can't help being an artist."

"Oh, no," said the girl, quickly. "I never knew these things before. No one was ever interested enough to tell me. Indeed I am not angry. I shall profit by your advice."

"Some day I shall paint you as you looked today," said Cartwright. "I'll pose you with a great bunch of 'Black-eyed Susans' in your arms. Will you be my model?" But Sue shook her head shyly and sped away—her heart singing as she went.

Nora was already dressed and waiting for the dinner bell.

The meal had reached the second course when Alan, looking toward the door, paused, fork poised in the air, with a muttered exclamation.

"I say, Rex, will you look who's here! What a beauty!"

Rex looked—and smiled, for straight toward them came Sue, looking like a radiant vision as she walked. Her dainty yellow frock (that Nora had discarded because the color was not becoming) was caught up here and there with little knots of brown and yellow ribbons, while a brown and yellow girdle encircled her slender waist.

She had to pass the two men to reach Nora, and as she did so Cartwright rose and whispered: "I see my model is ready for me—I shall call the picture 'My Dark-eyed Susan'—with emphasis on the first word."

Sue did not answer, but when she had seated herself, enjoying to the full her sister's utter astonishment, she let her gaze rest for a moment upon her companion of the afternoon, and over the heads of the others their eyes met in a look of complete understanding.

STILL OSTEOPATHS DEFEAT BEARCATS

LOCALS IN BAD SLUMP

Yesterday's Football Scores

Missouri Wesleyan, 24—Central College, 6.
William Jewell, 7—Westminster, 0.
Rolla Miners, 69—Springfield Teachers College, 6.
Kirksville, 34—Tarkio, 3.
Chillicothe Business College, 19—Graceland College, 3.

Still College won, 19-0. About the details of the game, played yesterday afternoon on the State Teachers College field, the less said the better.

Coach Russell Sprong probably would have rather seen his charges take this game than any other on the Bearcat schedule. The Osteopaths hailed from Des Moines, Ia., the home city of the former Drake star.

Maybe the presence of so many visitors upset the Bearcats. At any rate the team failed to show the football which it is capable of playing. This is the most pitiful part of the game. Had the Bearcats played even as good football as they did in the Kirksville and Graceland games, the score would have been reversed.

The Iowa Osteopaths apparently were a defeated team when they went on the field. Although they totaled many more pounds in weight than the green and white players, their game for the first few minutes was purely defensive. As the game progressed, they took heart.

Poor forward passing, fumbling, failure to run back kicks, missed tackles, and a general lack of generalship on the part of the Bearcats made the game look bad to the spectators. Two of the three Osteopath touchdowns came as the direct result of intercepted forward passes.

The first quarter was scoreless, and the Bearcats had all the best of the play. The ball was always in Still territory, but the punch to take it over the goal line was lacking.

The Osteopaths were still helpless during the first part of the second quarter, until a Bearcat forward pass was intercepted by one of the Iowans and carried forty yards toward a touchdown. The Osteopaths made ten yards on line plays and end runs and were then held for three downs, but on their last attempt the Bearcats backs slept peacefully while a forward pass was tossed over the goal line and snugly nestled in the arms of an Osteopath. The goal kick failed leaving the score 6-0.

The second touchdown of the Iowans was the turning point of the game. It came on the last play of the half, when Murphy, the Osteopath fullback, broke through the line in the middle of the field and dodged through the secondary defense for a touchdown. The whistle ending the half blew before another play could be called. Goal was kicked, and the score was 13-0.

The Bearcats showed a flash of good football in the third quarter. Near its end, the Bearcats had the ball less than two yards from the Osteopath goal and four downs to make the distance. On the first play Pickens shortened the gap to less than a foot, but the next play lost a yard. The quarter ended there, and he ball was taken to the other end of the field, where the Bearcats failed to push the oval across. Three other times they had an opportunity to score but failed each time.

Near the end of the game, the Osteopaths made their third touchdown when Thomas intercepted a Maryville forward pass and with perfect interference ran half the length of the field for a touchdown.

Substitutions, Maryville: Bland for Young; Puckett for Lundt, Lundt for Puckett; Houchens for Webb; Bush for Kirby; Palmer for Earp; Puckett for Houchens.

Still: Odell for Nicholas; Wedel for Garrison; Lustig for Davis.

Touchdowns: Murphy 1, Thomas 2. Next week the Bearcats will play their second conference game with Central Wesleyan College. The game will be played at Warrenton. The following week they will play Palme College of Albany on the home field. Both these teams are reported weak and the Bearcats will have two opportunities to break into the winning class.

LAMKIN LEADS DISCUSSION OF VOCATIONAL TRAINING

Some Training Not Practical Here, President Says—Fairchild Defends "Merchant of Venice."

The high school section of the departmental meetings at the College yesterday afternoon was presided over by Supt. L. E. Ziegler of Maryville. President Lamkin of the State Teachers College, was the first speaker. His subject was vocational and practical courses in high school. President Lamkin discussed first the three vocational bills passed by Congress. They are: The Smith-Hughes bill, the Smith-Kenyon bill, and the Smith-Pess bill.

All kinds of vocational training are not practicable in our local district, Mr. Lamkin said. "For instance, should we try to teach brick laying, carpentry, or plumbing in this northwest district, we should neither be able to find enough teachers properly qualified nor have enough students taking the courses."

"We must have in years to come, a still closer relation between the so-called cultural subjects and vocational subjects," he said.

A commercial course consisting of bookkeeping, shorthand and typewriting is not enough, according to Mr. Lamkin. These are rapidly being supplanted by new machines such as the adding machine, which students should be taught to operate.

The Smith-Hughes bill is to help put vocational training in the high schools. The Smith-Kenyon bill is for the rehabilitation and education of disabled soldiers. The Smith-Pess bill is for the rehabilitation of those disabled in industrial work.

Dr. A. H. R. Fairchild, of the English department of the University of Missouri, appeared second on the program. He read a masterly discussion on "The Rejection of The Merchant of Venice in the High School." He said that no democracy can flourish if it admits any kind of racial prejudice. If Shakespeare has been true to his art, there should be no objection to the teaching of the play in high school. It is merely a question of literary criticism.

Other races have the same reasons for objecting to others of his plays as the Jew has to Merchant of Venice, said Dr. Fairchild. The Scotch might object to Macbeth, the Greek to Timon of Athens, or the English to Richard III. The Merchant of Venice is a masterpiece in characterization, especially of Shylock, the Jew. Shylock is not a Jew, but persecuted humanity. He is a mere accident of history that this person happened to be a Jew. There are only two just criticisms of the play: first, Shakespeare's representation of home life is untrue; second, the fifth act does not solve the problem of the play.

The play is a perfect and masterful description. The play itself is not to be objected to, but the usual manner of teaching it.

At the close of the meeting, Supt. Patrick of Bethany was elected chairman for next year and Supt. Zelfitz of Stanberry was elected secretary. A resolution was passed that the chairman and secretary of each department should sit with the regular executive committee at least once to discuss the program for next year.
